Further, in order to reduce a vibration generated during the running of the vehicle, some vehicles are provided with a swing arm, and a shock absorber is arranged between a pair of arms forming the swing arm so as to absorb vibration of the vehicle body. On the other hand, a technique has been proposed in which a light-weight spring is used as a shock absorber. For example, a technique in which a spring fabricated of an elastic metal such as an aluminum alloy is used as a front fork spring has been disclosed in Patent Document 1. As a result of this, the weight of the front fork may be reduced, and the amount of change in the length of the spring may be reduced, which may lead to suppression of degradation of the performance of the shock absorber.February 20, 2011 Grandmothers and Murderers: How Conservatives Coddle the Worst in Us By: Joseph Calamia His comment is typical of his narrow-minded narrow-brained men like the rest of the right wing talking heads on cable news networks. Typical right-wingers think that only they are entitled to good health care and other forms of health insurance. Such twisted logic is only possible because, over decades, the right wing has sold its constituents that only they alone have the right to be free of personal responsibility. It seems they know that they won't, or shouldn't, take responsibility for their decisions so they constantly rationalize and create reasons for their decisions as a way to fool themselves and others into thinking that they really have no personal responsibility and that they know what's best for themselves.
