1. Begin Photoshop and choose File > New. The Quick Start screen opens (shown in Figure 3-4).
2. Enter the desired file name. If you want to save the file as a specific size, enter that information here. If you want to make a copy, enter Copy in the Save box.
3. Choose Yes to create the file on the local computer. The file is saved on the hard drive. As a shortcut, you can also access the local drive from the File menu (refer to Figure 3-4).
4. Click Browse (or press Enter) to navigate to the folder you want to save the file to.
5. If needed, click the folder to open it.
6. Select a destination file on the computer and choose the photo you want to save. I recommend saving to the Documents folder (in My Pictures on Windows and photos on Mac OS X) because that folder is available on any hard drive that has a capacity of at least 1 gigabyte. It also happens to be the location used by the Windows operating system when the computer is turned on and connected to the Internet.
7. Click Save. Figure 3-4: The Photoshop New dialog box includes basic settings for the new file. Photoshop enables you to import a number of different file formats into the program. Adobe uses the term `_metadata_` to describe data about data. This includes all the information about what a file is or where it came from. So when you import a file into Photoshop, you're also copying metadata along with the image data.
8. To import a file, choose File > Import. The Import Settings dialog box appears (shown in Figure 3-5).
9. Choose the file type to import, then select the file location to save the image to, if desired.
10. Click OK. You see the Import Settings dialog box, which includes an Open button that leads to the folder you chose in Step 5.
11. Click Open to locate and open the file you want to work with.
12. Click OK when the Open dialog box appears to select the file. Photoshop opens the file on the workspace.
13. Click the Modify button.

What is Photoshop? Photoshop is one of the most popular, powerful graphics editing tools out there. The program is available for both the Mac and Windows operating systems. The professional version, Photoshop, is even available as a mobile app. The Free version, Photoshop Elements, is also available on both the Mac and Windows platform and gives you access to most of the tools that professional designers use to modify images. What is Photoshop Elements? Photoshop Elements is Adobe's free alternative to Photoshop. Photoshop Elements doesn't have access to all of the tools in Photoshop, but it provides most of the core features. Adobe Photoshop Elements is a professional web design tool, and gives you everything you need to build a website. For Mac users, it is available through the Mac App Store. Adobe Photoshop Elements is a professional web design tool, and gives you everything you need to build a website. For Mac users, it is available through the Mac App Store. How to Use Photoshop Elements If you already use Photoshop Elements, you can use the same shortcuts as Photoshop to quickly access your tools. If you are new to Photoshop Elements, you can find more detailed instructions on the 'Windows' or 'Mac' versions of the Adobe website. Use Photoshop Elements just like you would use Photoshop: as a new user, we'll go through everything step by step and help you build the skills you need to become a graphics designer in no time. How to Import Photos If you are a beginner, you will be glad to know that you don't have to use the Photoshop image editing tools to import your images. All you need to do is drag and drop the images you want to work on into the Photoshop Elements window. The program will automatically

Q: Was the attention of the community taken away by the new Arqade? This question got close (well, I think it did as I didn't vote to reopen). It was asked on Dec 16 but it has low view count (though it has 0 downvotes) and many of the the answers are from high rep users. Now, was the attention of the community taken away by the new Arqade? A: Without getting into a huge debate about the value of the new Arqade site, I'll just say that the site is still very young, so the attention of the community is likely to be much more divided at the moment. The new site is in a time when we also need to try to readjust to some new changes, such as: the new site has an official site for business questions, meaning that there is a much bigger chance of getting questions from site users who might want to post on other SE sites; the new site also has an official community moderation team, with tools and responsibilities that mean the community can also engage in discussions, help the new mods to develop their tools, and interact with the community to get more feedback about the site. These are just some of the things that come with the new site, and it's possible that these new features will not be immediately apparent to the newcomers, nor to the regular users. Overall, I believe that the new site is a great thing for us - we can all learn a lot from the experience here, and it's great for people who want to start a career in moderation.

What's New In?

Q: I want to call a function when a item is added to a UITableView. I have a table in which I have a search bar and a few items from a JSON response are displayed. Upon adding an item, I want to perform the following function:

tableView.addItemToTable(dictionaryWithObject.get(searchText)) Then I have a function for adding items to the table func addItemToTable(object: NSObject, title: String) { var newViewController = UIStoryboard.init(name: "Main", bundle: nil).instantiateViewController(withIdentifier: "AddViewController") as! AddViewController newViewController.tableView.dataSource = self newViewController.tableView.delegate = self var isFirst: Bool = true var userId = Auth.auth().currentUser?.uid var query = PFUser.query() query?.whereKey("objectId", matchesQuery:"\\(userId!)") query?.findObjectsInBackgroundWithBlock({ (objects, error) -> Void in if error!= nil { print(error) } else { if let foundObjects = objects as? [PFObject] { if let object = foundObjects.first as? PFUser { let isAlreadyConnected =
Auth.auth().currentUser?.uid == object.objectId if isAlreadyConnected! {
