The state of the world has deteriorated into chaos and the global elite faces a massive crisis. But no one in the world is willing to turn the other cheek and let a disaster of this magnitude occur. Gamers take the role of the powerful and immaculately dressed elite, to shape the fate of our planet and of mankind. The game is a departure from previous versions of the genre. Players are being given the opportunity to decide what happens next, for better or for worse. It takes the player to the heart of decision-making, the inner sanctum, the centre of power that is the seat of the executive and the supreme ruling body, the United Nations. All that remains is an uphill struggle. The UN is weakened. The European Union is on the verge of collapsing as rising unemployment leads to ever increasing poverty. The USA is no longer the heart of the world and has lost its former role of leadership. Developed by Ludia, master of the 'Simulation' genre, the game boasts an incredibly rich and interactive world, more complex and sophisticated than any other in the genre. With impressive graphics and sound and numerous gameplay features, the game remains both entertaining and compelling for gamers of all skill levels. Italy has been shaken by a month of devastating attacks across the country, with over 100 people killed by far-right and Islamist jihadists since October. La Repubblica newspaper said on Saturday that Palermo had been included in a list of Italian cities that will be "barricaded" during this weekend's inane. Italy is bracing itself for three days of rioting and clashes as the extreme right, often linked to the mafia, plans protests against the government's migration plans. This weekend the capital, Rome, is expected to be "paralysed" as the far-right fuels a wave of anger against Prime Minister Giuseppe Conte's proposed migrant cut. The far-right is expected to be joined by more centrist populists and the anti-establishment Five Star Movement. The 5 Star Movement was founded by Beppe Grillo in 2005, who has a long history of political activism and has since taken part in every Italian government except for Mario Monti's technocratic administration in 2012. On Saturday, Five Star held a "general strike" in Rome, closing down many train stations, the Colosseum and the Trevi Fountain.
